Ashly

Today

I'm sorry for whatever has your life in shambles, but I know you'll get everything under control just like you always have.

You and I owe it to one another to discuss what happened with us, each other's point of view, but when you are ready. I'm always ready because I address things head on without procrastination.

I wanted us to have a chance and for you to see I do care by all that I did to get us back together even now with this message. However, I do have feelings to and my reaction was not being mad just hurt & confused.

So now all I ask from you is to stir the path by saying/replying
Be Patient
Or
Goodbye
Silence is a representation of the latter.

Even if you choose the latter I do wish you Happiness & Success just be careful of what it will cos... Read more

Ashly is having a rough time right now, several things, education strain, teenage daughter syndrome, and there's the relationship factors.

I told her if I was there I'd take her to get ice cream and that my choice would be Cookies n Cream or Butter Pecan and asked her what her choice would be. So, to cheer her up I made her this message board.

She has not seen it yet, just thought I'd share this with you too.
